Ground Breaking Ceremony Held at Lake Harrisburg Site

Program is Attended by Civic Leaders

Mayor Horning Presides; Land Clearing Underway

As a huge tree-cutter pushed over tall trees and a gigantic rake piled them up for burning, a ground-breaking ceremony was held this morning on the Lake Harrisburg site near Galatia.

The program was held in the area of the huge dam, which is near Route 34, and was attended by a gathering of nearly 100 men, including all the members of the Harrisburg city council, water board members, members of civic clubs, schools and churches, a large delegation from George Hart post of the American Legion, representatives of the press and radio and other civic leaders.

Water Revenue to Pay for Lake Mayor Ralph Horning presided as master of ceremonies, and declared that "this is not the council's lake, or 'their' lake but 'your' lake—it belongs to all the people of Harrisburg."

Horning pointed out that there would be no taxation for the lake, reminding that in July, 1953, the water bills were raised 50 cents a month for such a project.

"This means a $20,000 a year increase in revenue which will go to pay for the lake," he commented. "There will be no taxation or further increase in water bills."

The mayor, following the invocation by the Rev. W. L. Cummins in which he thanked God for such a project that would give ample water to the community, called upon Fr. Thomas G. Bruns, who declared he was impressed by the tremendous prospects of the lake, with its big watershed.

Praises Project "I know you made a good choice," he said. "It is a great sign of progress—a milestone in the history of Harrisburg."

George O. Davenport, Harrisburg banker, reviewed the financial negotiations and declared: "From the first to the last meeting all the cards were on the table."

He said that the lake land was bought from people who owned homes and lived on the acreage and that when you buy a person's home you naturally pay a little more than it would be worth to the average person, and added:

"No man on the council or water board had his hand out behind him—it's as clean a project as there ever was in regard to graft. Many persons spent hour after hour on the project without getting a dime."

Others introduced by the mayor were Dr. G. R. Johnson, finance commissioner; Henry C. Dempsey, commissioner of public safety; Carl Tuttle, commissioner of streets and alleys; and B. E. May, commissioner of public property. All spoke briefly.

John Humm spoke for the water board, which is composed of Chairman Harry Dorris, P. J. Herron, Bill Melton, John R. Jackson, Sneed

Concert Ass'n to Kick-Off Membership Drive Tonight

The Harrisburg Community Concert association has planned a "kick-off" dinner to be held this evening at 6:30 at the First Christian church preceding the drive for new memberships which will be on this week.

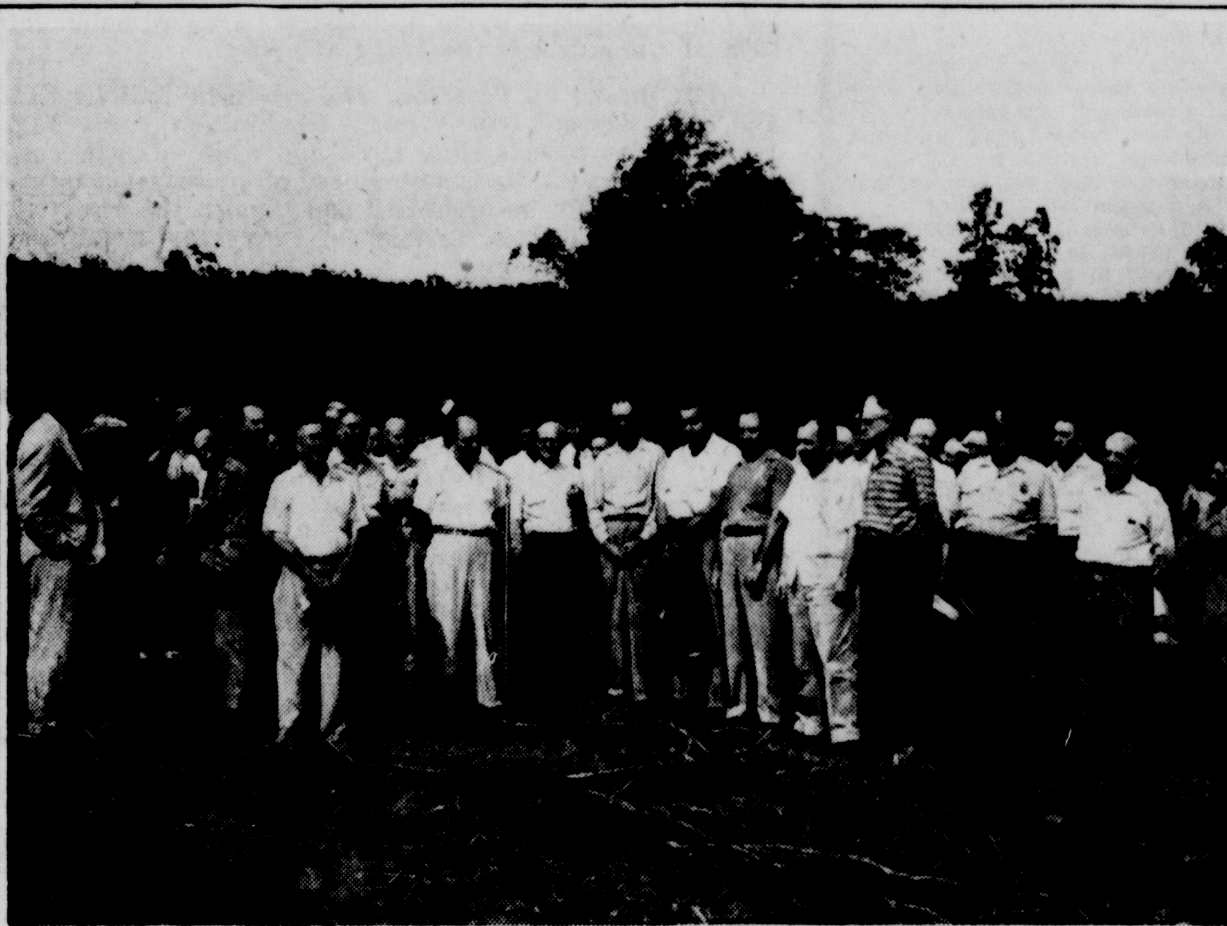

Last week was renewal week. The speaker for the occasion will be Mrs. Gretl Waldapfel, a native of Vienna, Austria, who is representative for Columbia Community Concerts in New York.

The goal this year for volunteer workers is fifty and thus far the group has approximately 35. The association invites volunteers who would help sell memberships to this dinner, stressing that one may receive a membership card by selling ten tickets.

Headquarters will be in the Gaskins building on the corner of Poplar and Vine streets.

THIS IS A TREE CUTTER BEING PUSHED BY A BULLDOZER, used by the Atchley company which has a subcontract to clear out the water area. The tree cutter is quite a contraption, looking something like a giant flatiron with serrated edges at the bottom. To the front can be seen a pusher which pushes over big trees without trouble. The tractor continues moving forward as the tree hits the ground, cutting off below ground level all parts of the tree that might be in the ground after the tree has fallen over. Not shown is a huge rake, fastened in front of another big outfit, which takes over the job of piling up the trees so they can be burned.

St. Louis Area Is Hit by Wind And Hail Storm

By United Press

Wind, rain and hail lashed a belt from Missouri eastward through the Ohio Valley today, causing scattered property damage and injuring more than a score of persons.

The first snow of the season at Cutbank and Great Falls, Mont., was reported.

St. Louis, Mo., was hit by one of its worst wind and hailstorms late Sunday. A score of persons was injured and thousands of windows and neon signs were smashed.

Trees and utility poles were downed and hundreds of automobiles were dented by hailstones of golf ball size.

Heavy rain up to two inches flooded streets. At least 1,500 homes were without power early today when a second heavy wind and rain storm struck the area.

The vigorous storm activity lashed across southern Illinois and Indiana southeastward across the Ohio Valley into the central Appalachians.

Gusty winds 40 to 50 miles per hour swept the region. The storm leapfrogged through the Dushore, Pa., area, leveling barns 10 miles apart.

At Cleveland, Ohio, three passengers of an American Airlines plane were hospitalized after suffering minor injuries when the craft was tossed about in the storm over Pennsylvania.

First Donations to Jaycee Factory Fund Appeal Total $143

Contributions totaling 143 dollars poured in to the Jaycee factory fund this morning following an appeal for individual dollar donations in Saturday's Register, and this amount is expected to increase greatly during the week.

Bob Davenport, chairman of the Jaycee factory drive committee, expressed the gratitude of the entire organization this morning for the fine response of the public to the appeal for donations. He said that the Jaycees hope every citizen of Harrisburg will answer the appeal for financial help in bringing new industry to the town.

20 People Call to Rent House Listed in Classified Ad

"We had 20 people call to try to rent our house," said Mrs. Wayne Baker, Daily Register classified advertiser, whose husband has accepted employment with the Oldsmobile-Cadillac agency in Carmi and moved there last week.

A classified ad also helped the Bakers to dispose of sundry items advertised in The Register classified column as "Rummage."

They sold all their rummage, rented their house and Mrs. Baker went Saturday to join her husband, who has been working in Carmi for a week.

Meek to Head Republican Campaign Caravan for Rally Here Wednesday

The Republican Campaign caravan, headed by Joseph T. Meek, candidate for United States senator, will be in Harrisburg Wednesday evening for a big rally at the court house.

With Meek will be Warren Wright, Republican nominee for state treasurer; Vernon L. Nickell, running for re-election as superintendent of public instruction; Cong. C. W. "Runt" Bishop, seeking re-election; and they will be joined in this area by Saline County State's Attorney Glen O. Jones, running for state senator; W. O. Verhines and Gordon Kerr, running for state representatives; and county candidates.

The invasion of the southern tier of Illinois counties started today. The caravan, or "Republican Crusade" as it is referred to by Meek, will begin with an evening dinner and rally at Pinckneyville this evening.

Tomorrow the candidates will tour Union county in the morning, and Johnson county in the early afternoon. At 3:30 p. m. they will speak at the Pulaski county court house, Mound City. The day will end with a rally and reception at Cairo.

The caravan will tour Massac county Wednesday morning and at 2 p. m. there will be a speaking at Golconda. At 4 p. m. the caravan members will be guests at a fish fry in Cave-in-Rock state park,

Funeral Services Held Sunday for Letcher Walker

Funeral services for Letcher Walker, resident of Harrisburg who died at the home of a sister, Mrs. Bertha McPherson, in Buckner, were held yesterday at 4 p. m. in the chapel of the Gaskins funeral home. Burial was in Sunset Hill cemetery.

Mr. Walker made his home with a niece, Mrs. Margaret Head, 115A West Church, and had been a semi-invalid since July of 1953 when he suffered a stroke. Since December he had been able to be up until the second stroke in July after which his condition was serious. On August 20 he was taken to the home of Mrs. McPherson in Buckner and his condition became critical.

He was born the son of the late Gilbert and Sudie Walker and was a well known butcher in Harrisburg, having last worked at Bramlett's meat counter in the A&P store.

He leaves in his home his niece, Margaret Head; a great nephew, Charles Edward Hester, and a brother-in-law, Ben Head; a daughter, Mrs. Betty Strobel, Savannah, Ga.; a son, Jerry Walker, Harrisburg; two sisters, Mrs. Bertha McPherson, Buckner, and Mrs. E. R. Denny, and one brother, Erle Walker, both of Harrisburg.

Out of town relatives attending the funeral were Mrs. Edith Ponzi, West Frankfort, Mrs. Carrie Ryan, Mr. and Mrs. William Cavanaugh, Mrs. Lola Floyd, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Jones, all of Paducah, Ky.

Streamliner Hits Truck

MATTOON, Ill. (UP)—A crack streamliner train smashed into a truck today derauling several cars. One person was reported killed and "about a dozen" others injured.

The New York Central Railroad's Southwestern, eastbound from St. Louis, rammed into an asphalt company truck about four miles east of here.

The engine of the train apparently tore up the track and pulled the cars off. Police Chief Marion Joseph said eight cars were derailed.

Roy Colwell, administrator of Mattoon Memorial hospital, said one person was dead and "about a dozen" were injured in various degrees.

"We haven't as yet been able to determine the extent of their injuries," Colwell said.

He said the dead man was believed to be the driver of the truck, tentatively identified only as "Bryant."

"I didn't count how many of the cars were over, but most of them were turned over," Colwell said. "I'd say a quarter of a mile to half a mile of track was badly torn up."

The accident occurred shortly before 2 p. m. EDT when the Southwestern limited, eastbound from St. Louis, Mo., struck a truck belonging to the Howell Asphalt Co., Mattoon.

Killed at Cypress

CYPRESS, Ill. (UP)—Verl E. Davis, 49, was killed one mile south of here Sunday night in a two-car collision on Ill. 37.

State police said Davis, a farmer, was killed when he attempted a left turn and his car was hit by an auto driven by Van H. Hall, 19, of Paris, Ill., a sailor stationed in Memphis, Tenn.

Atty. Jack C. Morris

Jack C. Morris Sworn In as Ass't U. S. Attorney

Jack C. Morris, Saline county attorney, was sworn in as an assistant U. S. Attorney for the Eastern District of Illinois in East St. Louis today.

The oath was administered in U. S. District Court by Federal Judge Fred L. Wham, and was witnessed by Mr. Morris, Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Morris, U. S. Attorney Cliff Raemer and Atty. Scerial Thompson of Harrisburg.

Atty. Morris, son of Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Morris of Eldorado, is a graduate of Columbia college, Columbia university, New York, N. Y., and the George Washington University Law School, Washington, D. C. He has been admitted to practice before the U. S. District Court for the District of Columbia, the Supreme Court of Illinois and the U. S. District Court for the Eastern District of Illinois. Since his admission to practice in Illinois, Mr. Morris has been associated with Atty. Scerial Thompson of Harrisburg in the general practice of law.

Mr. Morris is a World War II and Korean overseas veteran, having served as an enlisted man in the U. S. Navy from 1944-46 and as an officer in the U. S. Marine Corps from 1950-52.

The Eastern district of Illinois comprises 45 counties in southern and eastern Illinois with U. S. District Courts being located in East St. Louis, Cairo, Benton and Danville. It is the duty of the U. S. Attorney's office to prosecute all offenses against the United States and to prosecute or defend, for the government, all civil actions, suits or proceedings in which the United States is concerned.

Attorney and Mrs. Morris, the former Barbara Ann Carter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otis A. Carter of Eldorado, will move their residence to the East St. Louis-Belle-ville area sometime after Oct. 1.

Death Takes Mrs. Charles Holland, 64, of Pierson

Mrs. Lena Holland 64, wife of Charles Holland, died at her home in the Pierson community on Harrisburg RFD 3, Saturday at 12:35 p. m.

She was the daughter of the late Rev. and Mrs. Hugh Roberts of Harrisburg.

Besides her husband she leaves the following: Two sons, Elmer, Detroit, Mich., and Bertis, Pontiac, Mich.; one daughter, Mrs. Wilma Stults, and a sister, Mrs. Mae Johnson, both of Pontiac, Mich., and two brothers, Everett and Lesley Roberts of Harrisburg.

The funeral will be Tuesday at 2 p. m. at the Saline Valley Baptist church. Rev. Otto Catlin will officiate and burial will be in the Saline Ridge cemetery.

Palbearers will be Fred Tanner, J. R. Tanner, Priestly Hilliard, Olen Healy, Jack Wise and Cecil Bethel.

The body will remain in the chapel of the Gibbons funeral home.

Annual Home Bureau Meeting Wednesday At Masonic Temple

The annual meeting of the Saline County Home Bureau units will be held Wednesday, Sept. 22, at 1 p. m. in the Masonic temple.

This annual affair is county wide and all members are urged to attend. The public is invited.

Dies Near Golconda

Mrs. Roy Clore died yesterday at 3:45 p. m. at a home near Homberg southwest of Golconda. The body is now at the Buchanan funeral home in Golconda and no plans have been made.

Confident of Winning Vote In Short Clash

Chinese Regime States Intentions With Soviet Support

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (UP)—Red China served notice on the West in general and the United States in particular today that she will make a strong and determined bid for United Nations membership in the ninth General Assembly session, opening here Tuesday.

The Chinese Communist regime stated its intentions in an official Peiping Radio broadcast.

Soviet Russia, which will be Red China's principal support in the fight for U. N. recognition, promptly backed the Chinese plan in an article in the Soviet Communist Party paper, Pravda.

Both charged that only "the absurd obstructionist policy of the United States, blocks Red China's membership" in the world body.

Neither the announcement of Chinese intentions nor the propaganda blasts came as any surprise. Clash Probably Thursday

And the United States is confident it can — with support of its Western allies — again bar Red China from the U. N. in what likely will be a sharp but short clash — probably Thursday.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, backed by pledges of support from Britain and other allies, was ready to block Communist efforts to give Red China the Nationalists' seat.

The United States anticipated that Soviet Delegate Andrei Y. Vishinsky will demand a seat for the peiping regime at the start of the 60-nation assembly, perhaps before the president — expected to be Dr. Elcoo N. Van Kleeffens of the Netherlands.

There appeared to be a safe majority to vote shelving of the Red China issue for the duration of the assembly, a move similar to that taken last year.

"Piracy Acts" Listed

U. S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. bolstered the West's case Sunday night by publishing a list of 39 "acts of piracy" by the Chinese Communists during the last four years.

Lodge made public for the first time an official list of "warlike acts" by the Chinese Communists against the ships and aircrafts of free nations in the last four years.

It included 27 incidents involving the British flag, five involving the United States, two each concerning Denmark and Panama, and one each involving Norway, France and Portugal.

Cites Korean Record

"This series of acts of piracy must be viewed as part of a still larger pattern," Lodge said. "I refer to the Chinese Communist record in Korea; the campaigns of extermination against the Chinese people themselves, in which millions have lost their lives; the boast of the Chinese Communist leaders that they have the second largest army in the world — second only to the Soviet Union."

"Within this larger pattern, the many violent actions of the Chinese coast over the past four years seem to reveal the basic character of the Red Chinese regime — a regime committed to any means whatever, but especially to violence, in order to achieve its aims of conquest."

Mrs. Vijaya Lakshmi Pandit of India will preside at the closing meeting of the eighth General Assembly at 3 p. m. EDT today. Observers thought it unlikely Vishinsky would bring up the Red Chinese issue at the close of a session.

Son of Former Residents Dies of Polio At Battle Creek, Mich.

Jerry Lane, 15 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Lane, former residents of Harrisburg, died Sunday at a result of polio.

The funeral and burial will be in Battle Creek Wednesday afternoon.

He was the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Davis, former residents of Harrisburg now living in Michigan, and of Mrs. Ada Lane, Harrisburg. A large number of relatives in Harrisburg also survive him.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

The Lord will bless the righteous. —Ps. 5:12.

Those who live prodigally usually end in rags and hunger, friendless. It is wrong to say that no man can become wealthy by honest means; experience completely reverses this ancient slander. Even materially it pays to be decent.

Dewey's Last Stand

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

Because Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York reversed himself in 1950 and ran for a third term after saying he would not, some skepticism inevitably greets his new announcement that he will not seek a fourth term. But there are signs he may mean it this time.

For one thing, the governor's language was stronger. He said he would not run "under any circumstance." This suggests a draft would fail.

Then, too, it is four years later. Dewey may have genuinely wearied of political campaigning after going three times for the governorship and twice for the presidency. Furthermore, it is certain his collection of enemies is larger now, both within and without his party. Not even the ablest executive avoids treading on toes.

Some men assert that political ambition never will die in Dewey's breast, that he still would like to occupy the White House. Whether or not that is so, a return to private life is not necessarily inconsistent with such ambition. Dewey will never be wholly a private figure.

Dewey's contributions to his party have been large. At a time when it seemed to be popular to suggest that only one major party (the Democratic) was fit to govern, he demonstrated a Republican's high capacity for executive leadership in a political setting—New York state—second in importance only to the national administration itself. He maintained a high performance level through nearly 12 years.

Though he twice tasted the bitterness and frustration of defeat for the presidency, Dewey for the most part kept his balance and tried to cast his political weight toward the moderately progressive side of his party.

Whether or not one regards that as an admirable accomplishment, of course, depends on where he stands in the political spectrum. But it cannot be denied that Dewey was effective in exercising political power in behalf of the forces he allied himself with.

He managed twice to capture the GOP presidential nomination over more conservative elements, and in 1952 was the most powerful single factor in Gen. Dwight Eisenhower's successful fight over conservatives backing the late Senator Taft of Ohio.

Mr. Eisenhower and his supporters obviously will miss Dewey's heavy influence in their behalf. What this will mean for the President's future, for his position in the Republican Party, and for the GOP's liberal elements, the political sages can only guess.

It seems sure, however, that if Dewey sticks to his announced resolve a definite milestone will have been marked in Republican Party history.

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says: U. S. Will Delay Arms To Germany At Germany's Request; Newspapers Piping Down On McCarthy's Political Activity; Republicans Plan Big Fund-Raising Campaign To Offset Maine Political Hurricane.

WASHINGTON. — Despite all the international furor about returning Germany, Defense Secretary Wilson has just signed a secret policy order stalling U. S. arms shipments to Germany for 12 to 18 months after Secretary of State Dulles gives him the go-ahead signal.

A lot of well-laid Pentagon plans have been upset by this directive. For three years the Pentagon has been stockpiling guns, tanks and jeeps for the proposed new German army. Valued at nearly half a billion dollars, these arms would help create a 12-man division 400,000-man army, an 80,000-man air force, and a 20,000-man coastal navy.

On September 3, Gen. George C. Stewart, military aid director, announced that these arms would be given to Germany immediately after the agreements were signed. Inside a week, he told the press, trucks, jeeps, and military hardware borrowed from General Gruenther's U. S. forces in Europe would roll across the Rhine.

Now this is all reversed. And the amazing thing is that it was reversed under pressure from the Germans themselves. The Pentagon will withhold the arms shipments until the Germans have trained men to use the arms.

What the Germans feared was that by rushing the hardware across the Rhine prior to training German army, the United States would be inviting Russian aggression. Also there is a strong German minority opposed to armament, and the United States cannot afford to have it claim that Chancellor Adenauer is being pressured by the United States into rearming.

Meanwhile, the great German Wehrmacht, now reduced to a 12,000-man border patrol, is to be built up. This will take two years. So the sending of arms to Germany must be delayed for at least one year.

Note — U. S. military men complain that the German stockpile ties up a lot of U. S. storage space in the United States and Europe which the Pentagon needs for its own equipment. By October, this storage problem will be critical, yet the arms can't be shipped.

Screen Starlet Rita Moreno Socks Policeman

HOLLYWOOD — Police threatened today to file a complaint against fiery screen starlet Rita Moreno on grounds she socked an officer who had taken meat packing heir George A. Hormel II into custody on a narcotics charge.

The incident occurred at Morrell's Hollywood Hills home where the police officers had trailed the 26-year-old heir from a fashionable restaurant. Miss Moreno was sleeping on a couch inside the house and allegedly kicked a police sergeant when he attempted to search her overnight bag.

At a press conference later, the bosomy 22-year-old actress said she thought "the whole thing was a gag."

She said the officers, who had taken Hormel into custody after they found 13 marijuana cigarettes cached above the sun visor of his automobile, "looked so young — more like Harvard students than policemen."

"If they'd produced a badge or warrants there would have been less wrestling," she said. "Besides, I didn't hit him—I just pushed him, and I'm sorry."

Hormel denied the charge that he had purchased narcotics. "I have never used narcotics and never expect to," he said.

The heir to a $7,000,000 fortune was released after spending about seven hours in jail when a bondsman posted $1,500 bail for him. He was ordered to appear in Superior Court on Thursday for arraignment.

10,000 Children Inoculated Against Polio at Rock Island

ROCK ISLAND, Ill. — Ten thousand children received inoculations of gamma globulin here Sunday in an effort to protect them against a rising polio threat.

The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis said it was the biggest mass inoculation program of its type in the nation.

The children displayed mixed reactions to the needle, some screaming and some quietly submitting. But they were all pleased with the lollipop handed out for consolation.

A local candy firm provided 10,000 of the "all-day" confections, leading to the name "Operation Lollipop" for the tremendous effort.

The "shots" were ordered after the number of Rock Island County polio cases climbed to 88, with three deaths.

Michael Krone, 10, of nearby Moline, Ill., died Sunday night of bulbar-spinal type polio. His was the third polio death in Rock Island county this year.

ESPECIALLY For Older People

A New Radio Program — offered by RAY'S DRUGS at 1:00 P. M. and 7:30 P. M. each Tuesday beginning September 21

The increasing longevity of man and the problems created by the rising numbers of older people in our society have aroused public interest in the relatively new field of Gerontology, the study of aging.

Mr. Robert L. Peterson, who conducts AGING SUCCESSFULLY, holds B.A. and M.A. degrees from George Washington University. He has been with the University of Illinois since 1948, and while his particular field of interest is Business Management, he has developed an avocational interest in the problems of older people. In 1949, he organized and taught the first course to be offered by the University of Illinois, Division of University Extension in this new area of study known as Gerontology.

This radio series on aging represents a new contribution to the growing field of adult education.

Here are the titles of the programs:

- Our Chances For a Long and Healthy Life.
- The Rise of Interest in Growing Old Successfully.
- Making Old Age the Most Interesting Part of Life.
- What the Philosophers Say About Old Age.
- Some Oriental Attitudes Toward Old Age.

Heir to Press Kidnap Charges Against In-Laws

PARIS — Hotel heir James Goldsmith said today he will press "kidnaping" charges against his multi-millionaire in-laws even though they returned his daughter.

Goldsmith won the custody of his ailing four-month-old daughter Isabel Saturday but the child was not returned until Sunday.

Bolivian tin tycoon Antenor Patino and his estranged wife, the Duchess of Dural, had claimed that Isabel, born on her mother's death bed, was too ill to be left in care of her busy father.

The baby's own mother, the former Isabel Patino, died of a cerebral hemorrhage last May only months after she had eloped to Scotland with Goldsmith. Papa Patino followed the couple and attempted legally to prevent their marriage but finally and begrudgingly gave his consent.

Goldsmith charged the Patinos with "kidnaping" last Wednesday when he returned from a business trip to Liberia and was told the Duchess had taken the child from the Versailles hotel suite where he had agreed Isabel should be kept during his frequent absences.

Hendryk Hudson's ship was named the Half Moon.

Pope Pius Ordered To Take More Rest

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy (AP)—Pope Pius XII's doctors have advised him to reduce his activities and take more rest, authoritative Vatican sources said today. These sources said, however, there was no special cause for alarm in the Pope's present condition if he conserves his strength. Sporadic attacks of hiccups have plagued the 78-year-old pontiff since early last week. He is fatigued from an especially heavy September schedule of speeches and audiences, including a 15-mile journey from his summer residence to the Vatican and back. The Pope declined to take special medicines Sunday night but bowed to his doctors' wishes and cancelled a scheduled speech to pilgrims gathered in the square of this lake-side town.

In Santa Ana she visited her son, Jack, who has four little girls, and she was met there by her son, Bob, who accompanied her to Phoenix, where she visited him and his wife and one small daughter, having a most enjoyable two weeks' sojourn among the two families.

Federal Grand Jury Resumes Probe Of Labor Racketeering

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill. (AP)—A federal grand jury investigation of alleged labor racketeering in southern Illinois was resumed here today after a summer recess. United States Attorney Clifford Raemer said 35 witnesses had been subpoenaed to testify before the current session of the panel. The grand jury already has returned a number of indictments against leaders of AFL construction unions in southern Illinois and Indiana.

A great wooden horse was used by the Greeks to gain entry into the city of Troy.

WHEN COLDS MAKE HIM CRY —
Give Your Baby Relief that DOES MORE
THAN WORK ON CHEST!

When a cold makes your child miserable, he needs a medication that does more than just work on his chest. He needs Vicks VapoRub — because it acts two ways at once:

1. VapoRub relieves muscular soreness and tightness, stimulates chest surfaces.

2. At the same time, VapoRub's special medicated vapors also bring relief with every breath.

You can't see these vapors, but your child can feel them as they travel deep into the nose, throat and large bronchial tubes. Congestion starts breaking up. Coughing eases. Soon he enjoys warming relief that lasts for hours.

So when colds strike, use the best-known home remedy to relieve such suffering — Vicks VapoRub.

Statistics on Lake

Horning gave statistics on the lake, prepared by the engineers, R. D. Brown, R. R. Brown and John Belt. They revealed that the city bought 580 acres of ground of which approximately 300 will be under water. The lake will have a 900,000,000 gallon capacity, enough for three years without rain when full. It will be two and a quarter miles long and have a shore line of six and one-half miles. The dam will be 38 feet high, 1,000 feet long and 20 feet wide. Deep-est point will be 28 feet. The wa-tershed acreage will be between 3,000 and 4,000.

The J. D. Barter Construction Co. has the contract to build the lake. James Atchley of St. Elmo, Ill., has the subcontract to clear the area. E. T. Thomas will be the engineer on the job at all times work is being done.

Regarding using the lake area for recreation, Mayor Horning said that nothing had been done yet regarding cabins and that the city would have to abide by health de-cisions of the state on this matter. However, he said, it was the hope that there would be recreation fa-cilities on the lake.

Send it today to someone away! Man in Service... Student in college... Rates are reasonable. Call Cir-culation Dept., The Daily Reg-ister, Ph. 146 or 147.

WEBQ to Broadcast Lake Harrisburg Ceremony

Radio Station WEBQ this morn-ing made a tape recording of the Lake Harrisburg ceremony at the lake site by Eddie Wise and will be broadcast today at 5:30 p. m. The program will last 30 minutes.

FIRST LAKE HARRISBURG WORK done by the J. D. Barter Construction Co. was the construction of a new bridge, shown above, on a road that cuts through the water area. The road, which would be covered with water if left alone, will be raised to the height of the new bridge. (All Register Staff Photos)

Ground Breaking Ceremony at Lake Site

Jordan, Gus Syers and Mr. Humm. Others who spoke briefly were Millard Lynch, president of the Harrisburg Junior Chamber of Commerce; Lowell Hill of George Hart post, who is senior vice com-mander of the 24th district, Amer-ican Legion; Fred Armistead and Raymond L. Foster, who represent the city schools and high school, respectively; and Adolph Smith, representing the Smith Packing Co. and Walter Baldwin, representing the Harrisburg Dairy, two of the biggest water users.

Horning gave statistics on the lake, prepared by the engineers, R. D. Brown, R. R. Brown and John Belt. They revealed that the city bought 580 acres of ground of which approximately 300 will be under water. The lake will have a 900,000,000 gallon capacity, enough for three years without rain when full. It will be two and a quarter miles long and have a shore line of six and one-half miles. The dam will be 38 feet high, 1,000 feet long and 20 feet wide. Deep-est point will be 28 feet. The wa-tershed acreage will be between 3,000 and 4,000.

The J. D. Barter Construction Co. has the contract to build the lake. James Atchley of St. Elmo, Ill., has the subcontract to clear the area. E. T. Thomas will be the engineer on the job at all times work is being done.

Regarding using the lake area for recreation, Mayor Horning said that nothing had been done yet regarding cabins and that the city would have to abide by health de-cisions of the state on this matter. However, he said, it was the hope that there would be recreation fa-cilities on the lake.

2 Illinois Men Win National Plowing Titles in Championships at Olney

OLNEY, Ill. (AP) — Two Illinois farmers plowed their way through on-and-off rain showers Saturday to win the national plow match championships near here.

Robert C. Erickson, 30, Minooka, won the level land contest as he scored 82½ points out of a possible 100 points. He plowed his test half-acre in 40 of the allotted 44 minutes using a McCormick-Deering tractor pulling a three-blade plow.

The contour plowing champion is John C. Daniels, 32, Mulberry Grove, who scored 83 of 100 points, using an Oliver tractor and three-blade plow.

It was the first time one state had both winners since 1951 when Missouri farmers won both titles. Fourteen competed in this year's level land contest and nine in the contour match.

Charge Pressure Groups Seek to Bribe Candidates

SPRINGFIELD (AP) — The Taxpayers' Federation of Illinois charged today that "organized pressure groups" are trying to "bribe" candidates for the Illinois legislature and Congress.

The federation said in a statement that these groups are attempting to line up votes for their "pet projects" and are "using endorsement of the candidate for election as the bribe."

The statement referred to one organization which it said is questioning candidates whether they will vote for the 40-hour five-day week, increased vacation benefits, a hospitalization plan and other benefits for state employees.

The FTI said "obviously" an organization like this won't endorse a candidate unless his replies are favorable. It said it is also "obvious" that a candidate who answers favorably without knowing the cost or where the money will come from to finance such programs is "no friend of the taxpayers."

"Any taxpayer who votes for candidates with such endorsements has holes in his head," the federation said.

Mother, Children Meet After 35 Year Separation

CHICAGO (AP) — A Mother's Day poem and the efforts of an English newspaper today enabled a mother and her children to become reunited after a 35-year separation.

Mrs. Elizabeth Askin, 65, of Newcastle, England, stepped from a Trans-World Airlines plane at Midway Airport Sunday and into the arms of her son, William Hardwick, 43, and her daughter, Mrs. Mary Nolte, 37. The two Chicagoans had not seen their mother since 1919.

Hardwick introduced his three children to their grandmother and Mrs. Nolte followed suit with her three children. But she said that "in the excitement I forgot to introduce my husband."

The son said his parents had been separated in England in 1919 and were later divorced.

The father took his children to the United States in 1926 and subsequently refused to tell them anything about their mother.

Hardwick said he knew that she lived in England. Two years ago he wrote a Mother's Day poem based on recollections of his mother and the English neighborhood where he had once lived.

Last July he mailed the poem to a London newspaper and only 10 days after it arrived there news-men found his mother.

Hardwick, his sister and another son, Alfred, of Cedar Lake, Ind., pooled their savings and brought their mother from London to Chicago.

THE STORY: Private Detective Jim Dunn had just returned from his honeymoon, when he is requested by Mrs. Kit Carlson to "get something" on her mother-in-law, Dunn's secretary, Miss Wister, warns him not to have anything to do with the case.

It was 7 o'clock when Jim Dunn drove through the last of the traffic and glare of the Westwood and headed toward the mountains on the Morrison road.

Jim smiled at his bride. He felt he could spend the rest of his life smiling at her. Built on a miniature scale, standing only five feet in her toast-colored sandals which matched a short fleece coat, she was nevertheless perfectly proportioned. She wore a long, full, high-waisted skirt of Navajo stripes in apple green, yellow and black, a white peasant blouse with short puffed sleeves and yellow ribbons run through the eyelets around the neck. She showed no evidence of the hasty job she had done in uprooting their belongings from an apartment she had only begun to arrange.

"You weren't definite over the phone. Says you, 'Nancy, would you like to go with me on a job in the mountains that may last for a month or so?' What would you have done if I'd said no?"

"Missed you a lot," Jim said. "Why, you viper! Is Mrs. Carlson pretty?"

"I suppose you might say so. And she's determined."

Nancy settled herself more comfortably. "I don't suppose I have to be jealous. But, Jim, are you one of those who thinks the high places bring out the worst in people?"

"Or the best," Jim amended. "And from the location this might be pretty rugged country. Some people can't take it. Some people just plain don't like the mountains, but do all right in cities."

Nancy filed her husband's opinion away for future reference.

"And that," Jim went on, "I guess our client has had her share of trouble. I suppose you've heard of the Denver family, the Carlsons?"

"Certainly. You can't live in Colorado and not hear of them. The clan is headed now by old Mrs. J. Oswald Carlson. It wasn't long ago a paper had an article about how much better old-fashioned ways of bringing up children were. It cited the wonderful achievements of the Carlson tribe as an example of the happiness and success which comes from use of a whip and not spoiling the child. There was even a picture of a framed whip that Grandpa Carlson used to use — 'The Carlson Conscience'."

Jim Dunn said bluntly, "That sounds nuts."

"Nancy shook her head decisively. 'Historical. A museum piece. Just think of the importance of the switch that smarted young Carlson backs when Colorado was still Jefferson Territory! Think of the trouble saved if you have your conscience hanging on the wall where it won't bother you too often.'"

Jim could see where that might bring difficulties. He remembered Miss Wister's warning that the Carlsons were trouble. He said, "Anyway, our client is married to the great-grandson of the whip farmer."

Nancy nodded. "Mrs. J. Peter Carlson, formerly Kit Zugsmith of San Francisco."

"Maybe you know more about this than I do," Jim suggested.

"Not about the death in California, dear."

"One thing more," Jim smiled. "Maybe you can tell me what the J. in front of all the men's names stands for?"

"Certainly. It stands for Juniper. From the old Juniper mine above Fairplay. Grandpa, or great-grandpa if you want to be completely accurate, swindled somebody out of the Juniper claim and started the Carlson fortunes. And just to tie things up neatly, the willow switch, which now rates newspaper articles as the Carlson Conscience, was cut from the creek-bank on the claim."

"Must be pretty well dried up by now. Oh, I get it," he went on quickly as his wife smiled. "So is the Carlson conscience—with a little c?"

"Right. But go on with your part."

Jim chuckled, then sobered instantly, launched into the facts gathered from his telephone talk. "A man, a Gregory Stoneman, was found dead beside the swimming pool of the Carlson place in San Francisco. Fractured skull. There were two used highball glasses on a nearby table. The man's fingerprints were on both glasses, and only his. The death was investigated by the San Francisco police with Captain Steve Johnson himself taking charge. You've heard me speak of him?"

"Probably," Nancy said. "You're always talking about cops. Oh, I know. He's the one you met at Horseshoe Lake here in Colorado?"

"Right. At any rate, the investigation brought out no facts that were inconsistent with the death being due to a drunken fall."

"If the San Francisco police are satisfied, so am I. I suppose your client told you this?"

"I phoned Captain Johnson."

"You don't trust this Mrs. Kit Carlson?"

"No reason I shouldn't," Jim said. He amended the statement. "Or maybe there is one reason. Miss Wister doesn't like her."

They started up the Turkey Creek grade before she spoke. "Jim, Miss Wister is in love with you, isn't she?"

Dunn almost missed the first hairpin turn. "For heaven's sake! Nancy, are you going to be the kind of wife who thinks all women are after her husband?"

"Of course," Nancy said placidly. "It compensates for any doubts about my sanity in tying myself to one man."

"Frankly," Jim said, "that's a little confused. But don't explain it. But to get back to San Francisco. The death was finally written down as accidental. The man, Gregory Stoneman, was employed as a gardener on the estate. I guess that's about all."

"Don't be like that," Nancy said. "If he was a gardener, what was he doing at the swimming pool? And why the used glasses, the evidence of some sort of a party? I suppose this gardener was handsome?"

"Yes. Unfortunately for our client. Particularly since our client was alone in the house at the time. Alone, that is, with one vitally important exception. Mrs. Gelstrap, the cook. She swore that Mrs. Kit had not left her rooms, had not gone swimming, hated swimming in fact, and never went near the swimming pool. Captain Johnson couldn't break her story."

"Sounds like a pleasant mess," Nancy said. "Jim you haven't told me in so many words just what our job is supposed to be?"

"We're to give Mrs. Carlson our protection. And we're supposed to get something on mama. On Mrs. J. Hilton Carlson."

"Let's see if I can spell it out for myself," Nancy said slowly. "Scandal and gossip about Mrs. Kit. She hires us to get some dirt on her mother-in-law. A counter-offensive obviously. Are Mrs. Kit and her new husband separated?"

"Not to my knowledge," Jim said. "They weren't together in the office, but he's in the back ground at least. No. I'd say mama-in-law is just doing her best to break things up. Must be that, or we wouldn't have been hired to—"

"Spy?" Nancy suggested. She waited a moment for Jim to express his dislike of the word. When he kept still, she went on, "Of course Mrs. Hilton may be protecting her son from a murderers."

"Happy thought," Jim admitted. "We have a lot of things to find out."

"Some mess," Nancy said. "If there wasn't a mess," Dunn said carefully, "clients would be better hiring a private detective. Incidentally, did I tell you we're supposed to be caretakers? And that maybe you'll find a few little things to do around the house for Mrs. Kit?"

"Oh, brother," Nancy said. "Now that really sounds good! A continuation of our honeymoon, you said."

"Don't be like that," Jim said. It sounded rather a weak remark, even to him. He blew the horn on a blind curve, kept blowing it just for a break in that line of talk.

Nancy pulled his hand away at last. "I suppose the whole Carlson tribe is waiting for us?"

"Well, no," Jim admitted. "We're supposed to drive to Creek Junction, a little place on a side highway. We pick up keys there. Our client 'bought' a place this afternoon. A place adjoining or a part of the Carlson estate. But look at the papers. They're all there in the glove compartment."

Nancy pulled open the compartment. The envelope of papers was weighted down by Jim's holstered .45. "Can't carry it any more," Jim reminded. "A new state law prohibits private operatives from carrying concealed weapons."

Nancy had the papers out, was using the dash light for a quick study. "Plenty of instructions," she admitted. "And a deed, Jim. In the name of Mrs. Gelstrap."

"The cook in the case," Jim said needlessly.

"And the previous owner, J. Peter Carlson. Something's wrong here, Jim."

Democrats See Stevenson as '56 Candidate

Speculate Gov. Clement of Tennessee Will Be Running Mate

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UP)—Confident Democrats said today Republican "mismanagement" of government will fill Congress with Democrats this fall and head Adlai E. Stevenson toward the White House in 1956.

They wound up a two-day national congressional campaign kick off with a "better working relationship all over the country than we've ever had before," in the words of national Chairman Stephen A. Mitchell.

Predictions of victory in the Nov. 2 elections were a dime a dozen. Most speakers said the economic issue would be the GOP's biggest stumbling block.

Looking ahead, party leaders gave Stevenson the pole position for a second try as presidential nominee in 1956 and further speculated that Gov. Frank Clement of Tennessee might well be his running mate with Paul Butler of Indiana handling the party reins as national chairman.

Attacks Foreign Policy Stevenson made a strong attack on President Eisenhower's foreign policy in a televised speech at Saturday's $100-a-plate banquet.

"All over the world," he charged, "American prestige — our good name and the respect of both friend and foe — has suffered, and the initiative, which the administration boasted it had seized, is in Communist hands."

Clement, at 34 the nation's youngest governor, stirred up a lot of comment with his rapid-fire attack on the administration's "sordid record of broken promises."

Some billed him as the Democrats' answer to Vice President Richard Nixon.

Stevenson hedged regarding his personal ambitions. He commented he was glad he isn't a candidate. They go through acute suffering most of us know nothing about."

The 1952 presidential nominee criticized the GOP for trimming military programs, "slashing" assistance to underdeveloped nations and raising import barriers.

"At Geneva and elsewhere," he said, the GOP has "succeeded in convincing many of our friends that we are rigid and inflexible, either unwilling or unable to negotiate or compromise, and that only the United States stands in the way of a peaceful world," he said.

Cites EDC Failure Stevenson said the administration's "tough, noisy talk" did not prevent the defeat of the European Defense Community and "we hope the government doesn't think there can be a strong Europe without France."

Not Recommended MIDDLETOWN, N. J. (UP)—Sailor Henry L. Armstrong was enraged with speeding automobile, continuing to flash by his unheeding thumb. So the 19-year-old hitchhiker stepped in front of the next car to come along and was knocked flat. Condition: generally unhurt but wiser.

Eisenhower Ends Mountain Vacation, Concentrates on Speeches This Week

FRASER, Colo. (UP)—President Eisenhower officially ended his mountain vacation today and prepared to drive back to Denver.

With a possible stop at 750 Lafayette Street for a morning kiss for Mrs. Eisenhower, the President planned to go direct to his summer White House offices at Lowry Air Force Base. He scheduled no office visitors and will concentrate on the speeches he must deliver this week in the Pacific Northwest and Southern California.

Members of the White House staff were enthusiastic about the President's appearance and demeanor after six days of fishing and painting at Byers Peak Ranch here in the Rockies.

Works On Paintings It was announced that Mr. Eisenhower had worked on a mountain landscape painting and on a portrait of George Washington. He has been working on the latter for days, using as many as 14 Washington pictures to help him capture a particular expression, a specific posture.

Rumors, meantime, flew through the staff as to the extent of the President's work-and-play vacation in Colorado. Best guess was that he would return to Washington Oct. 14—his 64th birthday. En route to Washington, he probably will stop off at Abilene, Kan., his boyhood home.

There was a chance the President might spend the night of Oct. 14 in Abilene, thus passing up birthday plans of the Republican party in Washington.

Winter may not come to Washington for some weeks yet, but the President Sunday morning got a taste of what it would be like. The thermometer at Byers Peak ranch dropped to nine degrees above zero.

Major Speeches On his tour of the Pacific Coast, the President will make two major speeches. On Thursday he will speak at the dedication of McNary Dam on the Columbia River and to a Republican women's rally in Hollywood Bowl in Los Angeles.

En route to the McNary Dam dedication the chief executive will make a short, informal talk Wednesday at Missoula, Mont., where he will watch a demonstration of training given Forest Service "smoke jumpers."

He also will speak briefly in Los Angeles Friday to the national convention of the American Federation of Labor.

Lean and Mean Team Can Win, Coach Warmath Tells Minnesota's Gophers

MINNEAPOLIS (U.P.)—A coach's conviction that a lean and mean team can win games and a quarterback who's not a gifted triple-threat star but a "Jack of all trades" carry Minnesota's football hopes this season.

Since practice opened Sept. 1 at the unheard hour of 6:30 a. m., Coach Murray Warmath has dished out his Southern brand of "winning football."

It includes a heavy diet of hard work. Warmath believes condition and spirit are the most important factors in a football team, with speed and size following in that order.

"That morning air is good for the boys. And the early practice gives them plenty of time to rest before the afternoon session," Warmath said.

Gophers in Condition
The Gophers reported in the "best condition" of recent Minnesota teams, according to one of the team's veteran trainers. They feared the consequences if they hadn't.

Warmath warned them last spring that any who reported with excess poundage would work twice as hard. One tackle melted off 40 pounds another 25.

Ironically, Warmath's desire to have the Gophers lean and mean may make it difficult for him to solve one of the many problems he faces in his first season at Minnesota.

That's the problem of depth—both in the line and backfield. During the first two weeks of drills, the bandage brigade included nine players and Warmath said he would lay off the rough work rather than risk more injuries.

Without heavy contact work, he

Merchants Drop Last Home Game To Orkins, 9-5

The Harrisburg Merchants' last home game of the season ended in a sour note Sunday afternoon when the Evansville Orkins left town with a 9-5 win.

Everything seemed to work in reverse for the locals as the Orkins worked Bill McNew for nine hits, five bases on balls and two hit batsmen. The Merchants also collected nine safeties off Nichols, a soft-throwing right-hander, however the Harrisburg boys left 11 runners stranded on the bases.

Harold Guley greeted Nichols with a home run blast in the third inning with a mate aboard to account for two of his team's five markers. The Merchants' patched up lineup saw Logsdon behind the plate, Don Price at the keystone position and Dick Romonosky in center. Romonosky, playing with three stitches in his right hand, and Logsdon paced the locals at bat with two safe blows in three trips. McNew with two for four and Fred Williams, Guley and Spurlock with one each, filled out the nine-hit attack. Furgeson, the Orkins' receiver, led the Hoosiers nine at bat with two in three.

Next Sunday the Merchants are scheduled to open a three-game series with Corydon, Ky., with Big John Romonosky hurling for the Harrisburg team, with his younger brother, Dick, as his receiver. All three games probably will be played at Corydon.

It'll be Sal (The Barber) Maglie on the mound with the sharpest razor he can hone and owner Horace Stoneham waiting in the wings with the finest champagne he can buy tonight when the New York Giants seek to clinch the National league pennant with a victory over the Brooklyn Dodgers in their own backyard.

It's the opener of a three-game series but there's "no tomorrow" for the Dodgers if they lose. The Giants automatically achieve their "magic number" of two with a victory and earn the right to meet the Cleveland Indians in the richest World Series of all time. The Indians clinched the American league flag late Saturday and now are concerned only with breaking the 1927 New York Yankees' record of 110 triumphs in a season.

"This is all we need to cap the year," a jubilant Chub Feeney, vice president of the Giants, said on the eve of the series. "It'll just wind it up right if we clinch it right there in Ebbets Field—their own backyard."

Dodgers Silent
The Dodgers weren't talking. They clung only to the slim mathematical hope left them plus the old baseball axiom that "It's never over 'til the last out."

Johnny Podres, 22-year old left-handed speedballer, is Manager Walt Alston's mound choice for the Dodgers' "do or die" effort. Podres owns a 2-0 record against the Giants this season but it's the biggest responsibility he's ever borne in his big league career. Three years ago he was doing his pitching for Hazard in the Mountain State league.

For the Giants, it's 37-year old curveballer Maglie, 3-2 over the Dodgers this year and a fabulous 21-9 over them for his career. Maglie, coming for his 14th win of the year, has been rested since last Tuesday. He'll earn another week's rest if he wins tonight.

Coach Lawrence Caluffetti and his 1954 Bull Dogs were receiving the plaudits and praise of many Harrisburg fans this week end despite their 7-0 loss at the hands of the Murphyboro Friday night.

The Pull Dogs turned in a fine defensive game in holding the veteran Red Devil eleven to a single TD, and demonstrated that they could become a team to reckon with before the season grows old.

No one realizes more than Coach Caluffetti the long road ahead and the need for more experience, scoring punch, and depth. But the '34 team has already displayed a fine attitude, willingness to learn and a certain amount of determination. Continued hard work on the part of the entire squad, coupled with a break here and there, might bring Harrisburg an upper berth in the South Seven.

In the meantime, Bull Dog fans can urge this year's gridiron squad to greater heights by being present Friday night at Taylor Field for the conference opener against Marion.

Ed Miller, outstanding end on the Bull Dog eleven of last season and picked by some on the mythical All-Southern Illinois eleven, is one of the top prospects for an end job at Northeastern A & M junior college at Miami, Okla., this fall.

The school has quite a record football-wise, having won 79 games while losing only 19, tying two, in eight years. The Norsemen have been represented in five bowl games, including the 1953 Junior Rose Bowl at Pasadena, Calif. Miller, only Illinois boy on the Northeastern roster, could well be a great asset to the club which is in a rebuilding program this year.

Elsewhere in the area, the smaller schools are again talking up fall cross country during the brief lull before commencing basketball practice. Galatia, Ridgway and Equality are already working out daily. Several more meet are planned within the next month.

Although plans for the observance are still in the talking stage, those in charge hope to have members of Equality's great 1931 team on hand for a Has Beens-Will Bees game. Several other events in conjunction with this program are being considered. Proceeds from the day's festivities are already earmarked to provide the gymnasium with a new scoreboard and timeclock.

Equality's new goalry is a great improvement over the gym destroyed a year ago last June by a violent windstorm. The improvement is most noticeable in the size of the playing floor, adequate seating facilities and dressing rooms. In addition, the school now has a fine shop department, which, when completed, will permit instruction in both wood and metal.

The school's annual Invitational tournament, always played early in December, is expected to produce an extra fine show this year. The eight schools which will participate are Joppa, Enfield, Royalton, Mills, Prairie, Ridgway, Shawneetown, Crab Orchard and the F-1 school. Equality is also a newcomer to the Greater Egyptian conference this season, so all in all, the sports outlook is bright at the Gallatin county school.

Oklahoma, Maryland Pace Opening Grid Wins; Notre Dame, Michigan State Face Tough Foes Saturday

By JOHN GRIFFIN
United Press Sports Writer
Football's opening weekend of 1954 stuck mighty close to the form sheet as impressive triumphs by Oklahoma and Maryland paced the advance of favorites, but there are signs of real trouble ahead this weekend when such titans as Notre Dame, Michigan State and Army make their debuts.

Oklahoma, operating in full view of a nationwide television audience, stamped itself as a true contender for the national championship by the brilliance of its 27-13 victory over a rugged but somewhat green California team.

And Maryland, last year's national champion, showed off its completely new backfield to advantage in a 20-0 rout of Kentucky.

In fact, just about the only eyebrow raiser in all of the weekend games was Alabama's 7-2 defeat by Mississippi Southern under the arc lights on Friday. This was supposed to be a game in which 'Bama would gain revenge for its 25-19 loss to the same school last season, but little Mississippi Southern showed instead that its record of nine wins and one loss last year was no fluke.

Watch Irish and Spartans
This slight surprise would be completely dwarfed this Saturday, however, should either Notre Dame or Michigan State be upset. It could happen, for both of these highly-rated teams are opening with a tough opponent.

Notre Dame, starting its first season under new 26-year old Coach Terry Brennan and with the great Johnny Lattner now graduated, tackles Texas, a powerhouse outfit which ground out 324 yards in whipping Louisiana State last Saturday with rugged ground power that produced touchdown drives of 80, 62, and 92 yards.

Michigan State, last year's Rose Bowl champion, opens with a nationally-televised game against Iowa, virtually the team that held Notre Dame to that celebrated 14-14 tie last season. And Oklahoma must come right back against Texas Christian, a team that showed versatile split-T power in whipping Kansas, 27-6.

Army and Navy Favored
Army and Navy by many the top team in the East this season, does not figure to have nearly as much trouble with South Carolina. And Navy, also making its debut, is rated a solid choice over William and Mary.

Among the other teams which scored notable victories on Saturday were: Georgia Tech, last year's Sugar Bowl winner, which walloped Tulane, 28-0; Mississippi State, which downed Memphis State, 27-7; Baylor, which gained revenge for last year's upset by crushing Houston, 53-13, as 19-year old soph Bobby Jones turned in a spectacular performance by running to two touchdowns, passing to two more, and setting up another two; Oklahoma A & M, which beat Wyoming, 14-6, as "Earthquake" Earl Lunsford gained 101 yards in 15 carries; Colorado, which trounced Drake, 61-0; Washington, with a 7-6 win over Utah; Oregon, which blasted Idaho, 41-0; Cincinnati, upset Detroit, 21-13, on three touchdowns scored by Jim Miller; and Texas Tech, last year's Gator Bowl winner, which spoiled Coach Paul Bryant's debut at Texas A and M, 41-9.

Voluntary Speed Limit to Champaign On Football Weekends
SPRINGFIELD (U.P.)—There will be a voluntary speed limit of 50 miles per hour on roads leading to Champaign-Urbana again this year on University of Illinois football weekends.

Gov. William G. Stratton announced Saturday he has ordered state agencies to post signs urging motorists to reduce speeds on congested highways leading toward the twin cities. Extra state police will be called out to help direct traffic.

The same plan was used last year. State officials reported there were only five minor traffic accidents in a 37-county area around Champaign-Urbana on football weekends.

Braves' Hopes of Winning Pennant Are Officially Dead
ST. LOUIS, Mo. (U.P.)—Milwaukee's dreams of a "miracle pennant" now are officially dead.

The Braves' last mathematical chance to win the National league pennant disappeared Sunday when they were beaten by the St. Louis Cardinals, 7-6. The loss left them eight games behind the league-leading New York Giants with only seven games left to play.

In the race for second place, the Braves trail the Brooklyn Dodgers by 2 1/2 games.

Gallatin Supervisors Set New Pay Scales for Three County Offices

Gallatin county's Board of Supervisors in meeting recently set new pay scales for three county offices, in line with state legislation passed last year. The new salary scales will not take effect until December of this year when new officials take office.

The supervisors boosted the salary of the county treasurer, county clerk and sheriff to $4,000 each per year. The county deputy hire was set at $800 per year.

The changes come for only those offices which are to be filled in this year's election, as changing salary during the term of office is prohibited by law.

Non-Communist Southern Indochina Rocked by Crises

SAIGON, Indochina (AP)—Assassinations, violence, political crisis and the unexplained disappearance of a cabinet minister rocked non-Communist Southern Indochina today.

In Laos, Defense Minister Kou Voravong was killed during the week-end and Foreign Minister Phoui Sanaikone was seriously wounded in the Communist bombing of a dance in Sanaikone's home.

In Hanoi, terrorists fired on the car of Viet Namese information Minister Hoang Ngyuen and Bui Bunham, anti-Communist propaganda chief of the Red-encircled northern capital.

Health Minister Pham Hum Chong of the strife-torn anti-Communist Viet Nam government in Saigon has been missing for 48 hours and was believed to have fled the divided capital where Premier Ngo Dinh Diem and Gen. Van Hinh have been struggling for control of the army and the free southern half of Viet Nam.

London All Cut Up over Helicopters

OFF FOR LONDON TOWN—Helicopters hover over a London airport before heading for central London, where they raise a racket that stops the House of Commons as they fly down the Thames.

By TOM A. CULLEN
NEA Special Correspondent
LONDON — (NEA) — Sometimes Londoners wish the Russians hadn't invented the helicopter, as the Kremlin claims, along with the electric light bulb, the telephone and the steam engine.

For ever since London's first helicopter airport was opened on the Thames life hasn't been quite the same. In fact, it's been hellish.

It's not that anyone objects to flying eggbeaters as such, it's the infernal noise—like a pneumatic road drill at roof-top level.

Here's what happens when a hover plane comes droning down the Thames:

At the first "flap-flump" of a helicopter blade, heads are raised in the House of Commons, speakers stop dead in their tracks, the wonder on their faces giving way to expressions of suppressed rage. The Archbishop of Canterbury's wife, who lives in Lambeth Palace on the Thames, slams down the windows, writes another letter to The Times.

Patients at St. Thomas' Hospital, one of London's largest, groan and curse the march of progress.

Those of London County Hall's 2,000 employees who haven't yet adjusted to the heli-hurry age stop their typing, rush to the windows to watch the helicopter land.

For having disrupted life along the Thames, the helicopter eventually does land. Out step four passengers who have saved 30 minutes in travel time from London Airport to central London.

"All that bloody noise," mutters a janitor in the House of Commons, "so that four rich men can get to the Savoy for their first cocktail at 5 o'clock instead of 5:30."

"Let 'em take a ruddy motor coach. Let 'em sleep, read a book or think noble thoughts."

But the helicopter is not without its converts. The Duke of Edinburgh is said on it, flies all over England in hover planes, taking off from the grounds of Buckingham Palace.

Enthusiasts predict that by 1958 a helicopter service between London and Paris, Amsterdam, Brussels will be in operation using 30-passenger, twin-engine American Sikorsky S-56's with a speed of 110 mph.

But for those who work and live along the Thames the news is bad. By next spring helicopters will be flying past the House of Commons 16 times a day, causing 16 interruptions of the nation's business.

Furthermore, the helicopters of the future will be bigger and noisier, due to increased power delivered at take-off and landing through jets at the tips of the rotor-blades.

As if the future were not black enough, there have been hints that advertisers would like to hover over the rooftops to urge a captive audience to "Use Snib-bo." And politicians. The day is of tomato range to harangue the not far distant when a politician voters, a practice already put to may have himself lowered in a use by some U. S. candidates.
